

The Telegraph

Fresh legal challenge to high speed rail

Campaigners trying to block plans to build a high speed rail line from London to Birmingham have made their first move to challenge the scheme in the courts.

High speed rail set to be challenged by opponents

By David Millward \(http://www.telegraph.co.uk/journalists/david-millward/\) , Transport Editor

4:47PM GMT 13 Feb 2012

Follow

487 followers

The HS2 Action Alliance has served a formal letter on Justine Greening, the Transport Secretary asking her to scrap the scheme which would see trains hurtling through the countryside at speeds of up to 250mph.